Homelessness is Considered a Crime

Mark Davisson • Barre St, Montpelier

Discussion

My name is Mark I have had an lscsw and was two classes for my doctorate dissertation following the icsw and I have found myself homeless and harassed for a variety of circumstances in Mountpelier, VT.

I have owned five homes I do just some very difficult circumstances and now homeless from circumstances beyond My control. The one thing I know there is no getting off the street without support opportunity and purpose. The homeless have been kicked out of every spot conceivable and it's considered a crime to be homeless. I find this attitude to be subhuman but forgive me all of my degrees are in humanities and psychology.

Instead of denigrating the homeless perhaps it's time to enact legislature to help them through community support services day treatment programs opportunities for vocational training and a place where they can be safe and free from being removed by the police.

There is a very dear young man at City Hall on a hunger strike because there's no place to go
