

The following was transcribed from an image distributed to federal employees in Vermont. The image is believed to be a screenshot of a section of a larger document listing all locations in the US that the federal government is aware of and/or expects to occur. That image was forwarded directly from a federal employee and will not be distributed directly so as to protect their identity.

Some federal employees have been instructed to take mobile work equipment, such as phones and laptops, home with them to protect said equipment, anticipate issues being able to access their workplaces due to protests, and work from home that day if needed.
